Introduction

Program Rationale/Mission

MAISD transition programs serve the needs of the students in our seven local school districts: Carson City, Crystal, Central Montcalm, Greenville, including Flat River Academy, Lakeview, Montabella, Tri-County, and Vestaburg.

Transition from Student to Young Adult

Young adults and their families are expected to practice the skills they have learned in their home and community, extending their learning into their daily lives. For that reason, some young adults do not attend a full five days. Attendance in the programs vary from one to five days a week.

Contact Information:

For further information about MAISD transition programs, feel free to contact any of the program teachers or supervisors listed after each program description. Or contact:

Daniel Brant, Associate Superintendent of Special Education

Referral Process

Case manager and special education teacher identify possible need for transition services, and contact LEA Special Education coordinator.

Case manager completes Transition Program Screening Document located in Transition Program Guidelines on MAISD website.

Case manager and Transition Coordinator review screening results to consider appropriate transition programming for student.

Case manager completes program application (located in Transition Program Guidelines on MAISD website) and submits it to Transition Coordinator.

Transition Coordinator contacts Transition Program teacher and Program Supervisor with referral.

If the team has identified that more information is needed, a staffing may be requested for Seiter Center or Transition Center. The staffing will guide the team in identifying the transition program that best meets the student's needs.

Prior to IEP being held, case manager will arrange to accompany the student and parent to a visit to the transition program.

IEP is held to review information and decide transition programming.

Seiter Transition Program Overview

Program Overview:

The Seiter Transition Program provides individualized support with a focus on successful transition from high school to that of an adult in the young adult's own community. Students benefit from both classroom lessons as well as daily opportunities for community based instruction in multiple settings throughout the county.

Entrance Criteria:

Designed to help provide transition services for young adults aged 18-26, the Seiter Transition Program is for those who are not ready to meet the demands of adult living but have completed four to five years of high school in a special education program for students with severe impairments. Students, teachers and families interested in enrolling in this program should complete the transition program application, including the parent questionnaire. Other assessment scores may be used to determine placement, including the MiAccess. A MiAccess score of Participation is recommended for this program.

Exit Criteria:

Exiting the program is based on each young adult's ability to meet their pre-established goals. The IEP team will meet to assess progress on goals and objectives to determine readiness for program completion.

Units of Study:

1. Employability
2. Communication
3. Social Strategies
4. Self-Advocacy Skills
5. Daily Living

Curriculum Used:

Units of study come from the Unique Learning System Curriculum.

MAISD Transition Center Young Adult Program

Program Overview:

The Transition Center Young Adult program is designed for adults who are motivated and have the desire to gain employment, increase their independence and build relationships with same aged peers. In order for these crew members to meet their desired goals; guardians, family members and/or AFC staff members must join us in having high expectations in order for them to reach their fullest potential. This program isn't a substitution for supervised care and social gatherings that can be accomplished with the support of an outside agency or in their current family setting.

Entrance Criteria:

First and foremost, the student and support people have expressed a desire to continue learning employment, community participation and daily living skills. This program is designed to help provide work and independent living training for young adults who are not yet ready to meet the demands of adult living but have completed four to five years of high school. Local district IEP teams recommending this program should complete the transition program application, including the parent questionnaire. Students will receive their Certificate of Completion upon completion of the Young Adult Program.

Exit Criteria:

Exiting the program is based on each young adult's ability to meet their pre-established goals. The IEP team will meet to assess progress on goals and objectives to determine readiness for program completion. Upon completion, young adults should have the skills to obtain supported employment with support from community agencies or achieve their maximum independence potential. Studies have shown that it is best practice for MAISD and outside agencies to work together to meet the students maximum potential. Our goal is that the student has met their transition goals and is prepared to enter their community before the age of 26.

Things to Know:

The program also believes in the Dignity of Risk (Robert Perske). The world in which we live is not always safe, secure and predictable. We believe it is degrading to our adult students to keep them in bubble wrap for the rest of their lives. We want them to experience life to the fullest, and with that comes risk, just like it does for all of us throughout the day.

Crew members and their families are expected to practice the skills that the crew member is learning at the Transition Center in their daily lives. For that reason, crew members do not attend a full five days. Attendance in the program varies from one to four days a week as they apply skills they are learning in the program to everyday life. To help with this transition, crew members and their families are strongly encouraged to enroll in Community Living Supports program offered by Mid-Michigan Industries that can be accessed through Montcalm Care Network or Network 180.
